

Chris Morris

WHEN SUNDAY ANSWERS STOP WORKING: A BETTER THEOLOGY OF SUFFERING

Churches are filled with faithful people quietly carrying chronic illness, depression, unanswered prayer, and grief. When suffering lingers, familiar Christian answers can feel thin — and leaders are left searching for language that is both honest and biblically sound.

In this theologically grounded and deeply pastoral session, Chris equips believers and leaders with clarity and practical next steps for seasons when faith feels fragile.

By the end of this session, participants will:

- Use four signature questions to move from spiritual paralysis to faithful action
- Recognize God's intimate presence even when He feels absent
- Replace harmful assumptions about pain and lament with a more honest, hope-filled theology

Chris is available for:

- Conference, chapel, school, and retreat keynotes
- Leadership workshops for pastors, staff, and volunteers
- Parent and family events

PRAISE FOR CHRIS

"Chris is a gifted author and speaker whose work flows from a deep love for Jesus and the hard-won wisdom of lived experience. When I invited Chris to speak at my church, our community walked away with practical tools and a renewed sense of hope. I'm deeply grateful for Chris and the important work he's doing in this cultural moment."

— David Ruybalid, Religious Trauma-Informed Coach & Associate Pastor at Life Church Peoria

Other Available Topics

Not Disqualified: Faith, Suffering, and God's Heart

Unshakable Faith: Helping Next Gen Build Resilient Hope

From Overwhelmed to Equipped: Leading Tough Hard Conversations in Ministry

LET'S CONNECT ABOUT YOUR UPCOMING EVENT

TEDx Speaker | Seminary-Educated Ministry Leader | Author